The War Today...

By DeWitt MacKenzie
AP War Analyst

THE BITTER internal strife which is beginning to rend numerous European countries—even those which are struggling for their lives with the Hitlerites—is symptomatic of vast political changes which the war's end will bring in many parts of the tortured continent.

The outstanding example of the moment is Yugoslavia, one of the world's bravest little nations, whose quarrel among brothers is in the news again today. But volcanic rumblings in many other countries indicate a coming upheaval.

The Europe which we knew before this war is on its way out—in fact, it already has gone, and closed the door behind it. We can't see yet whether it will be a better Europe, but it will be a different one.

Is there anything we can do about it? Not much, it seems, excepting to safeguard the country involved from outside interference during its travail. Self-determination must take its course, so long as it is headed for democracy. Indeed, if any of the big three—America, Britain or Russia—should attempt to impose its own political ideas it might produce an Allied rupture which would result in another war.

A fair explanation of what sort of ferment is at work was given the other day by Premier Badoglio, who is head of the co-belligerent Italian government. One might be rash in accepting all Badoglio's words as golden, but he called the turn when he told the British "Eighth Army News" publication:

"People are excited and overwrought after the distress of war. If conditions are too bad and they are without hope they turn to other presumed cures."

Italy itself is torn with political factions, even while the war tramples the peninsula. Some want to get rid of the royal house; others are trying to shore up the monarchy. Some desire a republic, and Communism has an active following. No man can foresee what will happen politically in Rome.

IN YUGOSLAVIA even while the Germans are trying to destroy the country, we have a fierce quarrel between the forces of General Josp (Druzhko) Broz and the army of General Mihailovic, who is minister of war in young King Peter's government which now has its seat in Cairo. Each accuses the other of making fratricidal warfare. Dr. Tito wears the emblems of Communism, as do most of his troops.

In neighboring Greece, native guerrilla armies are fighting each other despite the fact that starvation ravages the country. You can understand that if you know your Greeks, for they are political mind-

County Absentee Ballots Sent As Far As Pacific

Columbiana county election officials issued 215 ballots to absent and disabled voters before the deadline was reached last night prior to next Tuesday's municipal, village, township and school district election. Ballots were sent as far distant as the Pacific war theater.

Ballots had to be returned not later than noon today to be included in the precinct tabulation in the county's 13 cities and villages, 19 townships and 24 school districts.

The number of absentee and disabled voters fell 90 short of the 300 who applied in the preceding year's election in 1941, and 108 short of the 323 recorded in the state election last fall.

Italian Prisoners Of War Now Housed At Camp Perry

BY BURDETTE T. JOHNS
CAMP PERRY, Oct. 29.—The pattern has changed at this Army camp to give Ohioans their first glimpse at the other side of war—the fighting man who winds up as a prisoner by battling on the losing side.

Italian prisoners of war have been moved in to occupy a part of this military installation originally designed as a training ground for Ohio National guardsmen and later utilized during the first months of this war as a reception center for Ohio inductees.

The prisoners, whose number cannot be stated except to say that it runs into four figures, consist of soldiers, sailors, a few fliers and marines.

SCHOOL LEVY NOT NEW ONE

Voters' Approval of 1.5 Mills Will Not Increase Tax Rate

In asking for renewal of its 1.5-mill tax levy for operating public schools, the board of education reminded Salem voters again today that approval of the levy will not increase the present tax rate for schools.

The cost of operating the Salem schools as compared with other Ohio schools of similar size places Salem in a strong position to ask for a renewal of the present operating tax levy.

Salem's annual cost is $84.29 per pupil while the average cost in 35 Ohio cities in Salem's population group is $99.77 per pupil. The average cost in all of Ohio's 113 city school systems is $117.05 per pupil. The bonded debt for the Salem schools is $53 per pupil as compared to an average of $111 per pupil for the 113 cities of Ohio. Salem ranks 79th among the 113 Ohio cities in this respect.

Renewal of the 1.5-mill tax levy for schools will enable the board to continue a complete program of education. The loss of this revenue would force the board to reduce salaries, curtail the teaching staff, and eliminate many educational opportunities now enjoyed by Salem's boys and girls.

Endorsement of the levy was voted yesterday by a number of civic organizations including the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions clubs, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Quota club and the Ministerial association.

Salem Concern Defendant In $5,000 Damage Action

LISBON, Oct. 29.—A $5,000 damage action has been filed in the common pleas court here by Elizabeth J. Siler against the estate of the late William S. Arbough, and Eva M. Arbough.

The action was filed as the result of injuries sustained by the plaintiff the night of Oct. 25, 1941, when a board in a platform at the furniture store operated by the defendants gave way and Mrs. Siler fell, suffering permanent injuries to her right leg, it is claimed in the petition.

FDR DECLARES THREE-POWER MEET SUCCESS

Indicates Moscow Conference Entering Its Final Stages

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—President Roosevelt said today the Moscow conference has been a great success and he indicated it was in its final phases where formal documents of agreement are being drafted.

Mr. Roosevelt told a press-radio conference also that he was very much in favor of a senate declaration that, to avoid war in the future, this country will cooperate with others. But he did not care to say that the Connally resolution under discussion in the senate was adequate.

The chief executive asserted that the net results of the meeting of Russian, British and American foreign ministers make it a tremendous success not only from the point of view of definite items of agreement, but also from the standpoint of the spirit of it.

The overall objective, of course, he said, is peace in the world and the end of aggression. That is far and away the most important thing before the Congress, Mr. Roosevelt said.

Further Meeting Indefinite

A reporter remarked that the President seemed "confident of Russia's willingness to cooperate in maintaining peace," and Mr. Roosevelt said emphatically that he had always had such confidence. To a question whether he thought the Moscow parley had "confirmed and strengthened" this confidence, the chief executive replied in the affirmative.

He said he did not know anything more than he did two weeks ago about the possibility that the discussions would lead to another tri-partite talk in which he, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Marshal Stalin would be the principals.

Mr. Roosevelt said a lot of cynics had felt when the Moscow deliberations began that all of the participants would agree to disagree, that there would be a lot of suspicion and that they would not get anywhere. But the spirit of the whole conference, he said, has been amazingly good. He gave equal credit for this to Secretary of State Hull and to the Russians and British.

What specific documents and agreements have been reached, Mr.

G. O. P. Endorsement Of Bricker Hinted

COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—The stage for endorsement of Gov. John W. Bricker for the Republican presidential nomination was set today.

The Republican state central and executive committees were instructed to meet at noon next Thursday in the Seneca hotel.

While the invitations did not state the purpose of the call, it was known that endorsement of Bricker was the reason.

The call came shortly after intimates of the governor said Bricker was inclined at the moment to seek a fourth term as governor rather than go after the presidential nomination. This was based in part upon the swift ascendancy of Gov. Thomas A. Dewey of New York, even though Dewey has said he is not a candidate.

Nevertheless, Bricker has not eliminated himself entirely from the presidential picture; he will deliver a major address before congressional Republicans in Washington in February.

SEES FATHER DRAFT TAKING 1 OUT OF 6

BOSTON, Oct. 29.—Major General Lewis B. Hershey believes that not more than 1,000,000 of the 6,000,000 available fathers between 18 and 38 will be drafted.

"Deferrals for industry and the high rate of medical rejections will probably result in only one out of six reaching service," the national selective service director said at a press conference last night.

Hershey added that by July 1, 1944, "we will have completed the draft of fathers and then we will re-examine the 4-F's or induct men over 38. I personally like the 4-F's."

CONFESSES TO SLAYING WIFE

Air Cadet Lonergan Says He Slew Wife In Argument Over Baby

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The pages turned to a new chapter in the storybook Beckman Hill slaying today as authorities began preparation of the state's case against the stony-faced Wayne Thomas Lonergan who awaited arraignment on a homicide charge.

The 25-year-old Lonergan, who several months ago gave up a life of crime for the Royal Canadian air force, broke down yesterday and confessed he strangled and bludgeoned to death his helpless wife, Patricia, 22.

District Attorney Frank S. Hogan said the airman admitted killing his pretty wife Sunday morning because she refused to let him see their 18-month-old son, Wayne William Lonergan, who lay asleep in another room in Mrs. Lonergan's sumptuous apartment.

The break came after Lonergan had been subjected to nearly 24 hours of incessant grilling. While he was being booked and fingerprinted last night, police began grapping in the East river where Hogan said the student flier resorted he discarded his royal blue service uniform.

Lisbon Will Extend War Chest Campaign

LISBON, Oct. 29.—A plan to canvass two-thirds of this village's residents who, it is estimated, have not yet contributed to the Community War Chest fund, was made at a meeting of the campaign committee last night.

The $3,600 which has been subscribed, workers say, came from about 600 individuals, about one third of those who could give. It is believed that a further canvass will bring the $1,200 needed to meet the community's quota.

Launch Drive Here Nov. 21 To Enlist WACs In Air Force

As part of a nation-wide drive to recruit WACs for the Army Air Forces, a special Air Force recruiting team will arrive in Salem on Nov. 21. The team will stay through Nov. 24 and will be stationed at the Memorial building.

The team will coordinate its activities with those of Mayor R. R. Johnson and Mrs. Anthony Wolan, 1543 E. Third st., chairman of the All-States campaign to recruit WACs for all army services. WACs recruited especially for the Air Forces will be known as Air WACs and will be credited to the local quota under the All-States plan.

This marks the first time that women may enlist specifically in the Air Forces, where 86 specialized jobs await them. They range from stenographer to radio operator, from librarian to bomb-sight mechanic, from photographer to Link trainer instructor.

In opening the national drive, high Army Air Forces officers stressed the urgent need for WACs and praised the work of the 17,000 WACs already in the AAF.

The team coming to Salem will be composed of First Lieut. Joseph B. Burns, team captain; Second Lieut. Dorothy V. Dimmitt of the WAC and Sergt. Herman K. Bui-lock and Carl E. Polles. Now on temporary duty in the recruiting drive, all are stationed permanently at the Army Air Forces pilot school at Dodge City, Kan.

Eligible for enlistment in the WAC are women 20 to 30, mentally alert, in good health and of excellent character.

LIST MILLION GERMAN CIVILIAN CASUALTIES

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A total of 1,200,000 German civilians have been killed, or reported missing and believed killed, in air raids from the beginning of the war to Oct. 1, Swiss dispatches, quoting official German government statistics, said today.

The Zurich dispatches to London newspapers said also that 6,953,000 Germans have been bombed out and evacuated.

Civilian air raids casualties in the British Isles totaled 48,282 killed, or reported missing and believed killed, up to Sept. 30.

Seek Capture Of Vital City From Nazis

(By Associated Press)

LONDON, Oct. 29.—A mighty Russian tank force crushing down on Krivoi Rog, strategic Dnieper loop city, from the north, began its second day of battle today with last-ditch German armor in a fierce struggle for possession of the iron mine and rail center.

The battle is "still in full progress," the German high command communiqué said. The Nazis asserted they had destroyed 115 Russian tanks.

South of Dnieper loop, Red army troops were plunging through the wide steppes of the southern Ukraine less than 60 miles from Perekop, last door of escape open to the Nazi Crimean garrisons, Moscow said.

The Russians, advancing at a rate of from 12 to 18 miles a day, would reach the gates of Perekop within a week if that pace is maintained.

Capture of the village of Nizhne-Saragorhy, highway junction in the heart of the steppe country 46 miles west of Melitopol and only 44 miles from the Dnieper river town of Kakhovka, cleared the way for the rapid westward push. More than 3,000 Germans were killed in the battle for Nizhne-Saragorhy.

The Moscow radio today quoted a Pravda dispatch as saying that "German defenses have cracked all along the front between Melitopol and the Sea of Azov." The Soviet monitor recorded the broadcast.

At Krivoi Rog, northwest of Melitopol, capture of the city appeared inevitable as Russian pressure increased. Other Red army forces pounced 35 miles to the northwest of the besieged city to capture Marianovka, cutting the Snamenka-Nikolaev railway leading to the Bug river, next German defense line to the west a Moscow communiqué reported.

Capture Entire Company

In cleanup operations southwest of Dnepropetrovsk, Soviet troops swept into several towns. On their way to join the forces storming Krivoi Rog, they killed 1,500 Nazis and captured an entire company of the 46th German infantry division, the war bulletin said.

Balki, a village 27 miles from Nikopol, German-held strongpoint in the northern steppe country, was taken by Soviet columns rounding up German remnants south of the Dnieper bend.

PENNSY TURNPIKE EXTENSION SOUGHT

Group Seek Support For Plan to Build Highway North of Salem

A resolution favoring the northern route for the proposed extension of the Pennsylvania turnpike, so that it will enter Ohio somewhere in the vicinity of Youngstown, was adopted at a meeting of the North-eastern Ohio and Western Pennsylvania regional planning committee held Thursday afternoon in Youngstown.

Although no specific route was considered, the general idea is to work for the extension of the super-highway north from its present terminus at Irwin, Pa., crossing the Allegheny river near Kittanning. It would touch Bedford and New Castle, Pa., and probably follow Route 224 west through Ohio, a few miles north of Salem.

Several western Pennsylvania counties and Mahoning, Trumbull and Columbiana counties in Ohio were represented at the meeting. They decided to attempt to get endorsements from county and city officials and civic organizations in all their communities, and then invite representatives from Stark and Summit counties to attend the next meeting.

Representing Salem at this meeting were L. H. Colley, president of the Business Bureau; Albert P. Morris, County Engineer Charles Snyder and Ralph Hawley.

'Gas' Station Entered

LISBON, Oct. 29.—The Hanna East End service station was broken into last night by thieves who broke the glass in a door to gain entrance. An empty cash register and a book of "T" gas ration stamps belonging to a school bus driver were taken.

The cash register was found this morning in a shallow stream near West Point where the thieves apparently left it when they found it empty.

Sheriff George Hayes and Police Chief Dalton Pike are investigating.

TRANSITION RELIEF

Properly administered, with the selection of government-subsidized students governed by their need for help and their desire for education, the presidential proposal of a billion dollar post-war educational project for former service men and women would be a particularly constructive form of transition relief.

Furthermore, it would do a great deal to brighten the post-war future of colleges and universities whose operations have been turned upside down by the war and can be resumed only with the greatest difficulty when their services are no longer required for military training purposes. They would have at least a backlog of students and could make their plans accordingly.

Most compelling aspect of the proposal, naturally, is the effect on the young men—and women—whose educations have been interrupted by the war. They would know, if legislation for their benefit after the war existed, that they could look forward to at least one year of academic or vocational training, and it is suggested that those with special aptitudes might be given extended training.

Implicit in every proposal to use federal funds for state and private educational institutions is the possibility of the power of the purse being misused—the objection to a federal school aid bill now pending in congress—but the possibility should not bar the way for one of the most constructive uses proposed yet for some of the money that undoubtedly will be spent to ease the demobilization of our fighting forces.

COST AND EFFECT

Expenditure of 5,700 men and at least $146,620,000 worth of planes by United States Eighth air force since May 1 helps clarify the practice of strategic bombing.

On a single raid, the operation against Schweinfurt industrial installations whose loss will cripple German war production for months and may never be replaced were destroyed.

Schweinfurt was inaccessible, except by air. To lay siege to the city with a land army, any general staff would be willing to pay a heavy price in material and casualties, but even that would be out of the question without previous invasion of Germany, an operation whose magnitude is attested by the fact the Allies still have not attempted a frontal assault.

Considered objectively, the loss of airplanes and intensively trained personnel in the operations against Germany is approaching a level that seems high, though it has not approached British losses, estimated at 1,388 heavy bombers since May 1, compared with 553 United States bombers. But considered in relation to the effect on Germany's ability to wage war on all fronts, Americans may say as an inspired spokesman for Britons said of the Royal air force—"Never have so many owed so much to so few."

GROUP SPOKESMEN

Addition to the White House calling list of a panel of businessmen, complementing the spokesmen for organized labor and organized agriculture who are called in for the guidance of Mr. Roosevelt, is reminiscent of the early days of the New Deal. The method of consultations with group spokesmen continued, but the businessmen pined out.

There are engaging possibilities in a thorough-going application of this system of keeping the chief executive informed. Obviously, his field of contacts would need to be broadened if the job were done right. He would have to consult occasionally with unorganized labor, which has no voice at present. He would need to add unorganized farmers, also without representation at present. There would need to be a panel of taxpayers, and ideally the chief executive would have the advantage on frequent occasions of talking to half a dozen of his countrymen with no axes to grind—just people.

The head man can't very well slip into a disguise and go about among his countrymen to find out what they think any more, but if he could he certainly would be making a mistake to concentrate on labor leaders, farm leaders and business men.

REPORTS OF DEATH ARE PREMATURE

Reports come sighing out of Washington, delivered by legions of congressmen, that a general sales tax is dead because the ways and means committee killed it. They resemble the quadrennial reports of the death of the Republican party.

A general sales tax is not dead. It is the treasury's ace in the hole, to be turned up at the showdown on the highest rate of public spending ever practiced by any government that ever existed.

Perhaps it will not be turned this year, or next year, because it is involved in the politics of the 1944 presidential election, but sometime before the end of the war there will be a federal sales tax for the simple reason that it is the sole remaining revenue producer that has not been applied to the federal revenue problem. Every tax known to tax experts will need to be used eventually to pay for World War II.

With the exception of the early days of the republic and the periods of its two greatest wars, this is the first time the American people have been confronted with the necessity for genuinely punitive taxation to compensate for a rate of public spending so high it cannot be supported by levies based on political considerations. Survival of those considerations is blocking adoption of a general sales tax now, but adoption cannot be blocked indefinitely. Necessity ultimately will make the decision for the politicians still refusing to face a reality even greater than running for reelection.

We do not gloat over destruction of German cities. But half-measures are cruel in war; they prolong the agony, and by prolonging it, waste life—British secretary for air, Sir Archibald Sinclair.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, October 30

WHILE THIS day offers excellent opportunity for gain, in many directions probably through travel, agencies, communications, writings or publicity, in which satisfactory financial return is promised, yet there may be a tendency to cast aside such good prospects for gain and advancement. It might be an example of Opportunity failing to knock at the door twice.

Those whose birthday it is have a most auspicious time for progress, productive work and increase of funds and position, but it is probable that such openings may be offset or nullified by a proclivity to extravagance, show, social indulgences, or other forms of prodigality and unwarranted outlay. With this tendency held in leash there should be varied and worthwhile opportunities, through travel, sales, agencies, publications, or in business or literary pursuits. Original ideas and cleverness along such lines should be appreciated.

A child born on this day should have outstanding talents and versatility, in business or the professions, with splendid openings for their exploitation, but it will be prone to extravagance, social or other forms of prodigality.

SOLDIER VOTE AND FDR.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Senator Brooks (R-Ill.) said today the special overseas war ballot for the soldier vote had been designed to give President Roosevelt an advantage in the 1944 election.

Brooks said it appeared to him that Democratic authors of the Lucas-Green absentee voting bill had "deliberately" omitted provisions for printing on the ballot the names of the major party candidates for president and vice-president.

Emphasizing that he favors the purpose of the bill—to provide a voting opportunity next year for an estimated 7,600,000 service men and civilians—Brooks criticized the form of the proposed ballot.

"For some reason not clear, no provision has been made for printing on the ballot the names of the major party candidates for President," Brooks said in an interview. "Instead a blank space is provided for writing in the name of the candidate of the voter's choice, or his party."

"It would appear to be a deliberate effort to capitalize on the fact that the name of the President might be more readily remembered among the service men than that of his political opponent in the election."

Brooks implied that he thought Mr. Roosevelt would be seeking a fourth term.

Large formations of huge American bombers attempted to penetrate western Germany today, but were driven off by hordes of our brave fighter pilots. Forty-seven enemy bombers were shot down. One of our bombers was lost. One of our cities is missing—Nazi communique as the U. S. Eighth air force public relations staff would say it.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Cirrhosis of the Liver Discussed

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"I SEE BY the medical journals," observed my old friend, Dr. Adrian Gibbs, the other day, "that Dr. Clending will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column."

Somebody else has now discovered that drinking alcohol does not cause cirrhosis of the liver.

"All I can say is that in my practice, which has extended over 40 years, every time one of my patients passed out from cirrhosis of the liver I could remember a long history of being called up by his wife to come over and unhook him from the chandelier."

"But along here about 15 years ago the research boys began to report that they were producing cirrhosis of the liver in animals when they gave them a diet low in protein and vitamin B. I was a little skeptical of that, because I never saw what I would call cirrhosis of the liver in an animal."

So I went to the medical school where these experiments were being carried out and looked at the livers. Well, all I can say is that what these animals had didn't look like cirrhosis to me.

"Now we have a report from Philadelphia showing that in 156 cases of cirrhosis of the liver there was no history of drinking in 105 of them (70 per cent)."

"It all reminds me of the story of Dennis McTaw. When I was a kid around here, Dennis ran a dry goods store and a good one, and he made a lot of money, but along come five o'clock and he would get drunk. He used to do things that seemed to him at five o'clock were funny—like bringing home a milk dressed up in a straw hat and leading it into the parlor."

"Well, his wife was a very peculiar woman and she got tired of it and divorced Dennis, and he sold out and went to Denver. I was there once and went to call on him, and he took me into a saloon and all he had was a glass of milk. Said what his wife did to him had taught him a lesson and that he hadn't had a drink for over ten years."

"Well, one day I was sitting in my office and in came a patient, and a very nice woman she was. She wanted an examination and what she specially wanted to know was how was her liver. So I examined her carefully and the first thing I said was she needn't worry about her liver at all. And she wanted to know why, and I said because in the first place it didn't show anything, and in the second place the principal cause of liver trouble was liquor."

"Now," says she, "I know you are no good."

"How do you know?" I says. "Because my brother just died in Denver of liver trouble and he never had a drink in his life."

"What was his name?" I asked. "Dennis McTaw," she answered. "And I guess that accounts for that 70 per cent in Philadelphia."

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

R. H. Q.—Does temperature rise more readily in children than in adults?

Answer: Yes. Bremmerman recently reported some tests on people before and after exercise with oral and rectal temperatures. Of course, exercise increases temperature in all, both old and young, but the increase in the children was much greater and maintained longer.

Florence:—Does sleeping sickness affect the mind?

Answer: Sleeping sickness, or encephalitis, usually affects the lower ganglia of the brain and leaves the mind clear. In a few cases, however, the mind is affected.

H. W. D.:—Will you explain briefly what rhinitis is? Does it do away with your sense of smell?

Answer: Rhinitis is literally, according to the meaning of the word, an inflammation of the nose. A cold is an acute rhinitis. The cavities and twining bones of the nose—the sinuses—are so numerous that a chronic case is most difficult to treat. In some cases the mucous membrane is destroyed and the sense of smell disappears. The variations are so great that the only sensible advice I can give is to see a good doctor who specializes in the nose.

M. W.: I have given blood three times to the blood bank and now they tell me I have a systolic heart murmur. Is there any harm in giving again with this condition?

Answer: Depletion of blood itself causes a systolic heart murmur. I would wait until later and see if you don't have a chance to build up, then the murmur may disappear.

A. P. R.:—What time of the year is it best to remove the tonsils of a two-year-old child? Does taking them out in the spring or summer cause the child to be more easily susceptible to hay fever?

Answer: There is no time of year best to remove tonsils. Their removal has no effect on hay fever whatever.

M, JELLY POINT VALUES ASSIGNED

at to Six Point Range Announced: 42 Meat
Items Changed

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Oct. 29—Jams, and fruit spreads, which will rationed beginning Sunday, were given values of four and six points a pound by the Office of Administration today.

Accompanying this announcement in the agencies November of point values for processed meats were increased from two to six points in the ration cost of meats, apples, fruit cocktail, pears or pineapple in cans or bottles, orange juice and three tomato juices, but the values on beefs, pork or squash and grapefruit were reduced.

42 Meat Cuts Lowered
OPA announced also that beginning Sunday the ration cost of 42
meat cuts, including mutton cuts, beef values unchanged.

Butter will stay at 16 points.
Other changes in the meats-fats program included a two-point increase for margarine to six points a pound; boost of one point for pickering as well as salad and cooking oils, raising the total to five points a pound; and increases of two points to a total of five a pound for cream cheese, creamed cheese, neufchatel and cream spread.

In other processed food changes,
effective Sunday, pickled, spiced and branded fruits were eliminated from rationing and the beef category was revised.

Six Points On Jams
A value of six points a pound jar was assigned to jams, preserves and non-citrus marmalades, while the ration cost of jellies and fruit jars was fixed at four points a pound.

Changes increase the point value of common No. 2 cans of apples and berries of all varieties from 10 to 15 points. No. 1 tall cans of fruit cocktail get a 20-point value instead of 18, while the boost on a
No. 2 1/2 can of pears is from 21 to 25 points.

Pineapple in No. 2 1/2 cans goes from 34 to 36.
Beets go down to 5 points from for a No. 2 can. A No. 2 1/2 can of pumpkin or squash will cost 15 points compared to 21 previously.

The value of a 46-ounce can of applesauce is reduced from 4 points, but a No. 2 can of pineapple juice will cost 12 instead of 10 points.

Catsup Increased
Values of such tomato products as catsup, chili sauce and tomato sauces are increased 1 to 3 points.

Pickled, spiced and branded fruits, more perishable than ordinary canned foods, were removed from rationing to move out all old stocks in wholesalers and retailers dried, OPA said.

Dried and dehydrated soups and spices and lentils, listed at zero value for several months, have been dropped from the chart.

A zero value still is assigned to citrus marmalades in connection with rationing of fruit spreads.
Supplies are plentiful, OPA said,
but they are brought under ration control because of their importance in the over-all picture.

Starting Nov. 1, Green stamps A,
B and C from the new War Ration Book 4 will be used to buy processed foods. They will be valid through Dec. 29. In addition, the last blue stamps in Book 2—X, Y and Z—may be used through Nov.

PRISONERS

Ample food, plain but nourishing, is on the daily menu. The food passically consists of the same field rations issued U. S. soldiers.

For quarters the prisoners use the hutments occupied by army men before they moved out upon abandonment of the reception center.

The men are provided time for recreation and relaxation. And spiritually the ministrations of an Army chaplain, an Italian-speaking priest, are available. Physical ar-cements receive expert attention either in an infirmary headed by one of their own group who served in an Italian medical detachment, or in a section of the camp hospital headed by an army surgeon.

Strictly Italian Flavor
Camp life by design acquires an Italian flavor. Under the direction of Maj. McCormick's staff, all ordinary activities are carried out by prisoners. Italian cooks prepare all food under the direction of army mess sergeants. Italian barbers trim the hair and clip the beards of their fellow internees. The canteen is operated by prisoners. A shoe repair shop and a tailor shop are being set up.

Camp organization is on a company basis, with three Americans, including an officer, a sergeant and a clerk, in charge. Assisting them in carrying out camp instructions are three Italians, a maresciallo—or marshal—sergeant and clerk.
American army interpreters work alongside Italian prisoner language experts.

Separate company headquarters are maintained for administrative and supply purposes. Food is prepared and served in separate company kitchens and mess halls, both scrubbed spotlessly clean.

Daily routine follows a rigid pattern, starting with first call and veille at 5:30 and 6 a. m., and following through until call to quarters and lights out at 9 and 10
p. m. respectively.

Ordinary soldiers must work a minimum of 24 hours weekly, spread over a six-day week. Neither commissioned officers nor non-commissioned officers are required to work, but may do so if they choose.
There are no officer-prisoners here.

Prisoners Draw Pay
In addition to 10 cents per day paid every prisoner where he works or not, in keeping with convention provisions, labor is reimbursed at the rate of 80 cents per day.

The amount is not paid in money,
but in coupons which the prisoners may exchange for a variety of commodities at the canteen. These include soft drinks, ink, soap, shoe polish, toilet articles, hair oil is a big seller, candy, tobacco, fountain pens, pencils, playing cards, gloves and scarfs. The canteen has an American touch. It was decorated by a prisoner—no names may be mentioned—who painted Mickey Mouse and the seven dwarfs along the walls.

All work performed by prisoners must be of non-military nature road building, ditch digging and salvage occupy the workers' time.

War prisoners may be hired for farm work. Under the guard of army personnel they have been used for fall harvesting, including picking carrots and apples. Under proper supervision, Maj. McCorn-ick says, they make satisfactory workers.

The wage scale paid by the farmer is determined by the War Manpower commission and the United States Employment Service.
The rate for the Port Clinton area near the camp is $2.80 per day per man. The prisoner is credited with 80 cents of the amount. The government receives the remainder for camp maintenance.

Puzzled By Detention
All prisoners remain under military discipline. Violations are subject to usual army penalties, including kitchen or latrine duty, for minor items. More serious infractions can result in confinement up to 30 days.

Regulations provide for visiting

Historic Pittsburgh Cabin Birthplace of Salemites' Father

One of the early landmarks of Pittsburgh, which has been carefully preserved by the historical groups in the city, is an old log cabin on Penn. ave., birthplace of the late Peter Perchmont Forsythe, father of Mrs. E. E. Dyball and Mrs. Thomas Hesse of this city.

An account of the history of the cabin, built by the Salem women's paternal grandparents, Hugh Christian and Margaret Forsythe, western Pennsylvania pioneers, is given in a series of stories on Pittsburgh landmarks published in a Pittsburgh paper.

Built of logs held together with yellow clay, which were hewn from trees chopped down by General Bradstreet, the cabin stands among red-brick store fronts of modern Pittsburgh. Early historical pieces of furniture are housed in the building which has been preserved as the home of the family of Peter Perchmont, a soldier of the American revolution, one of the region's first settlers, and a captain in the Pennsylvania state militia during the Indian uprising of 1792.

The revolutionary war soldier was a cousin of Peter Perchmont Forsythe, who was Perchmont's name. Mr. Forsythe was born in the cabin and lived there until, as a young man, he left to follow his trade as a structural worker. He was one of seven Forsythe children who were born and lived in the pioneer home, the oldest dwelling in the community.

Forsythe came to Salem some years after leaving Pittsburgh, to work for the Mullins and Bakewell Co.

RELIEF COSTS IN COUNTY DECLINE

Columbiana county relief decreased further during October, according to a report submitted county commissioners by Miss Bernice Harbaugh, relief director, showing 88 cases and 165 recipients as compared to 92 cases and 173 persons the preceding month.

Direct relief costs for the first nine months this year amounted to $13,585.99, and have steadily declined each month from the peak of the year in March when relief costs were $2,076.00 to the low of the year in August when $1,047.68 was spent.

September relief, however, showed a slight increase over August with costs of $1,163.95, but with the case load lower October expenditures will be reflected accordingly, Miss Harbaugh said.

Report Nazi Field Marshal Is Demoted

LONDON, Oct. 29.—An Axis source confirmed today that Field Marshal Gen. Albert Kesselring has been relieved of his command in southern Italy and that General Heinrich von Wittinghoff has succeeded him.

The Nazi-controlled Vichy radio, in a broadcast recorded by the ministry of information, made the announcement, quoting Berlin as its source.

Reports of such a change have been current in neutral countries for several weeks but there has been no confirmation.

There were many stories of enmity between Field Marshal Erwin Rommel and Kesselring. Unconfirmed Swedish reports some days ago said Rommel demanded Kesselring's dismissal on the threat of resigning himself.

These reports said Kesselring had been sent to the air command on the Russian front.

ALLIES BROADEN SOLOMONS DRIVE

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 29.—Warships, planes and troops of the Treasury islands, 30 miles south of Bougainville, as the entering wedge to pry the Japanese loose from their last Solomon bases and fling open the door to Rabaul.

The operation, disclosed today in war reports, was executed brilliantly. Beginning last Friday, American bombers knocked out nearby enemy air fields with 500 tons of explosives.

In the darkness before dawn Wednesday, naval guns of a task force commanded by Rear Adm. Theodore S. Wilkinson poured shells on Mono and Stirling, tiny coral reefs comprising the Treasury group.

At dawn, American and New Zealand troops moved off big ships to landing barges and headed for the beaches. Overhead, swarms of planes roamed unchallenged. Warships laid down a smoke screen. Ra'n squalls added a natural curtain.

At dawn, American and New Zealand troops moved off big ships to landing barges and headed for the beaches. Overhead, swarms of planes roamed unchallenged. Warships laid down a smoke screen. Ra'n squalls added a natural curtain.

Mortar fire greeted first arrivals. These weapons were silenced quickly. Then the Japanese broke and fled into the hills.

"It was a splendid Navy day show," Admiral Wilkinson told all hands.

Once morning up is completed, heavily-wooded Mono and the tiny plantation isle of Stirling provide Admiral Ha'sey with positions close to the Shortlands, potential stepping stones for an invasion of Bougainville. The enemy's airfields on southern Bougainville already have been cratered into present uselessness.

ed. They are fiercely independent, too, and whatever form of government they choose, we may be sure it will be one which the people run themselves. They won't return to the terrible repression of the dictatorship which existed under the able but hard General Metaxas. Meantime, King George is in Cairo awaiting the chance to resume his throne.

Neighboring Bulgaria, whose King Boris was assassinated recently, is in a state of political upheaval. Many Bulgarians lean strongly towards Russia. Rumania, now ruled by Marshal Ion Antonescu as puppet for Hitler, will revolt as soon as the Fuehrer's hand is raised from the unhappy land.

Western Europe is likely to produce even more far-reaching changes. A great political storm is brewing in France, and it will be fortunate indeed if it is restricted to a quarrel of words. Over the French border in Spain, Generalissimo Franco's little boat is rocking.

The greatest change, of course, is coming in Germany—forced by the Allies. We naturally don't see many signs of political strife there now, but the end of the war is likely to bring a terrific storm.

Some say Hitler is inspiring the political fights in other countries. It strikes me he merely is exploiting situations which already existed.

were swinging down from Melitopol to stab at Perekop. Moscow said they were so close on the heels of the fleeing enemy that 65 guns "in full working order" were picked up at the town of Akimovka.

Red army warplanes, now masters of the skies over southern Russia, destroyed more than 300 Army trucks which the Germans were using in their flight to the Bug river across the Nogaisk steppes, the Russian communists said. Tremendous amounts of booty taken by the Red army troops suggested a breakthrough in German transport.

The Red army command has begun a fresh offensive in upper white Russia, 600 miles to the north. Gains of from three to five miles were reported there, the Moscow war bulletin said. More than 80 towns were liberated from the Germans including Surazh, 25 miles northeast of Vitebsk, an anchor base on the German defense line west of captured Smolensk.

REP. LEWIS TAKES ANTI-TAX STAND

WASHINGTON, Oct. 29.—Rep. Earl Lewis (R-Ohio) wants Congress to stand against any new taxes until government expenses go down.

Lewis said in an interview he would refuse to vote for a revenue bill unless administrative spending was cut "substantially." He added that he believed expenditures could be reduced sharply without interference with the war program or necessary civilian activities. He expressed doubt a sales tax ought to be imposed.

in the face of powerful Allied assaults.)

On the Eighth army front Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's veterans clashed bitterly with the enemy on the Adriatic coast road near San Salvo, two miles north of the Trigno river and three miles inland, where the Germans were making every effort to prevent enlargement of the shallow Allied bridgehead north of the stream.

Fifteen miles inland, where Montgomery's warriors have not yet reached the Trigno. Eighth army units occupied Montefalcone after a five-mile advance from Castelmauro.

Still farther inland, Montgomery forces captured Molise, on a 2,500-foot mountain one mile west of Torrella Del Sannio, taken yesterday.

Molise is about 18 miles east and slightly north of the mountain communications center of Isernia where the Germans had natural defenses.

These gains were scored through scientifically directed fire of massed German heavy and medium artillery placed in the hills where it would cover every approach. Bad weather washed out much of the Allied air support.

Roosevelt did not disclose. At the proper time, the President said, they will be revealed, probably from Moscow.

Objective Is Unity

Mr. Roosevelt said the conferees had been talking things over quietly and that relations individually had been what he termed about 100 per cent.

They are attempting, he said, to work toward the objective of unanimity not only on the progress of the war but also in the transition period afterward. The conference, he said, has been engaged in big things rather than in crossing T's and dotting I's.

Regarding the senate's foreign policy proposal, Mr. Roosevelt said he thought some general language would emerge and he remarked that too specific terms might have to be changed at some later time.

He said he thought it would be a very fine thing for the senate to say that this country would co-operate with others to avoid future wars.

The senate, the President said, has every right to talk about the issue as long as it wants to.

ADMITS SLAYING

Described by Hogan as "intelligent, stubborn and depraved," the lanky cadet began his purported confession after facing Maurice "Murray" Worcester, a Bridgeport, Conn., war worker and honorably discharged soldier.

Loneragan had maintained during his four days of questioning that he was at a friend's New York apartment with an American soldier named Murray Worcester at the time his estranged wife was slain. He claimed that Worcester had stolen his RCAF uniform.

"Do you know this man—have you ever seen him before?" asked Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet. Loneragan shrugged a decided "No."

Then Grumet identified him. Loneragan admitted that his story was fiction, according to Hogan.

Loneragan will appear in police line-up today, then be arraigned in felony court. The grand jury, possibly today, will be asked to return a murder indictment against him.

Witches' Tales Have Crept Through History To Plague Superstitious Persons of Today

BY DOROTHY ROE
AP Features Writer

DO YOU have an uneasy twinge when a black cat crosses your path? Think nothing of it—nine out of ten persons have the same thing, and some even turn around and go home. It's all a hangover from the Middle Ages, when witches romped over the highways and byways at night, and their leader was believed to be the devil himself, in the form of a black cat. You may be seeing him tomorrow night—it's Halloween!

The most enlightened of us have our pet superstitions, say authorities on the subject, and here are ten of the most common, as compiled by Claudia de Lys, author and lecturer:

1—Three on a match. This almost universal superstition was believed to have started during World War I, but actually dates back to the time of the fire-worshippers, when camp fires were relighted, three at a time, from a brand from the chief's fire, after the death of a member of the tribe. The ritual was all right but too to the tribesman who lighted three fires from one for any other reason! He was insulting the fire gods, and inviting death.

Knock On Wood

2—Knocking wood. Primitive man started the custom when he touched wood to apologize to the gods for lack of humility.

3—Unlucky thirteen. The ancient Hindus first put the curse on thirteen, in the days before numbers.

IPS LOSING IN EAST
HINA, GENERAL SAYS

HUNGKING, Oct. 29.—The Japanese grip on east China is weakening, Major Gen. C. C. Tsieng, spokesman for the Chinese army, said at a press conference today, adding that the enemy was evacuating an important highway town of strategic importance, 85 miles southeast of Chungking.

Tsieng said that the situation was unchanged on the Salween front, more than 600 miles to the southwest, where 30,000 Japanese troops were engaged in operations designed to forestall a Chinese counter-attack against northern Burma. The spokesman said he agreed "in general" with U.S. Senator Russell's (D-Ga.) information that the Japanese were now making more than 1,000 planes monthly.

Sixty-six million bushels of rice were produced in Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and California in 1942.

How many boys from SALEM won't come back?

NOBODY knows the exact number. Nobody. But—

The number who do come back—on their own two feet instead of in a flag-draped box—will be in exact proportion to the job we do here at home.

For every minute that we can help shorten the war will mean more lives saved. (213 Americans were killed in the final day of the last war, and 1,114 were wounded before the 11:00 o'clock Armistice took effect.)

Now one way all of us can help shorten the war is to tighten our belts and buy more War Bonds. Yes, still more. And . . .

If you think you're buying all the War Bonds you are able to, imagine—for a minute—that it's after the war . . .

. . . you're standing at the station . . . a bunch of home-town boys, still in uniform, climb off the train . . . one of them kisses his wife and grabs his kid in his arms . . .

. . . and then he turns to a young woman beside them, a girl who looks like his wife's sister, and you overhear him say . . .

"Catherine, I don't know how to tell you how sorry I am . . . it's such a shame about Joe . . . it makes me sick all over when I think how he'd be here today if the war had only ended a week sooner."

Think it over. Can't you buy a few more War Bonds to help end the war that week or month sooner? Sure, it may mean giving up something, but what's that compared to what they're giving up?

And remember, always—the money you "can't spare" may spare a soldier's life!

The Crimson Thread by LILIAN LAUFERTY

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE
 "Was Commodore Knowlton here when you left for Miss Drury's party yesterday?" Chief of Police Calvin asked.

"Yes, he was," I answered.
 "What time was that?"
 "About ten minutes past five."
 "Do you know what time he left here?"

"He said he was going home at six."
 "He was walking, wasn't he?"
 "Yes."
 "How long does it take to walk from here to the Everard house?"
 "Five minutes."

The chief fixed me with alert, watchful eyes. "For once your testimony checks with that of another witness. Little Henry Drury has just told us that the Commodore left here just before six in response to a sudden, urgent phone call from Mrs. Knowlton."

"I see."
 "Do you, Miss Glenn? Well, let's make sure you do see. Commodore Knowlton is the most prominent citizen not only of Havenhurst Beach but of all Havenhurst, perhaps even of Wayne county. I manage to remember a lot that incriminate him. You can even quote the words he said ten days ago. But you recall practically nothing that points to anyone else. It may be difficult for you to persuade a judge that your memory is poor, or that you are a disinterested witness."

"I don't believe she can even persuade Coroner Duncecap that she isn't after trying to shield somebody," Sergeant O'Toole added.

"As you have probably gathered, the Sergeant doesn't think too well of Coroner Duncecap," the chief said. "Would you mind calling your aunt now, Miss Glenn? And there won't be any listening from your kitchen entrance as your servants do. Officer Nolan's there to do the only eavesdropping we're going to permit."
 That's how I learned that we had a policeman detailed to watch Glennacres.

Sister Peggy didn't come home for dinner Monday evening. Just as Aunt Carrie was getting ready to summon the police, Dennis Riorden drove up in a rickety Havenhurst taxi and explained that he'd come out from New York with Peggy and that State's Attorney Jack Drummond had met her at the train and practically kidnapped her. "So I thought I'd storm in and take you two girls over to the Devon club for dinner and then perhaps give Hilda another driving lesson," he sounded as if it were day before yesterday and there hadn't been a murder committed next door.

Aunt Carrie sighed. "You're a dear boy to ask me. But I'm longing to have a tray in bed and now that Hilda has company, I can do it. I'm really quite exhausted."
 Riorden kissed her cheek. "Sweet dreams beautiful lady."
 "I'll sleep much better after they catch the murderer," she said. "As long as he's running around loose everybody in the neighborhood suspects everyone else."
 "I can give Hilda a clean bill of health," Dennis declared.
 "You two are the only ones who can give a good account of themselves."

"And Pam—" I added.
 Aunt Carrie smiled, a strange and very wise smile, wiser than we had any way of knowing then.

"When there's mischief at large it's always smart to suspect anyone as alluring as Pam," Dennis said. "If ever I've met a femme fatale that one is."
 I bristled mentally. Couldn't any man see through Pam?
 "She's a good actress too." That didn't sound as if Aunt Carrie had heard Dennis. But we both heard her when she added: "Aren't we all?"

"There'll be worse to come," he croaked. "This is only the beginning. And you can't ever say Mrs. Higgins and I didn't do all in our power to warn you."

Then he trotted off to get our grapefruit supreme.

"I object to murder with my meals. Soft music's a lot more relaxing," remarked Dennis. I thought him a little too hard-boiled when he said that. But I was vaguely grateful to him for talking about how well the show was going and what a good job the author was doing.

My driving lesson was pleasant, too. No chance to try to solve a murder mystery when you're busy learning the pattern of gear shifting. At dusk, Dennis took the wheel and turned into a little lane near the Hammond's Harbor Yacht Club. "I wanted to talk. Hence the secluded spot."

He parked in what probably was the lover's lane of that district. "Pipe all right with you?"
 "I like em."

The pipe glowed companionably. Then Riorden announced: "I'm moving down to the Devon Club, Friday. I may camp there for the rest of the summer."
 "But you're not a member. How can you?"

"You'd be surprised at the things I can do when I put my mind to it. My club in town fixed it for me."
 "Why are you moving out here?"
 "I like the place. Any objections to having me for a neighbor?"

"Why should I have?"
 "Thanks for the enthusiastic welcome. Now for the next bit of information. Crick Richards came into my office today and spilled it. He's in love with your sister. He wants you to know."

"Me? Why? I mean I should think he'd tell Peggy—though I wouldn't like it if he did."
 "He's not ready to tell Peggy. She's not ready to listen. But he wants you to know, so you won't think what follows is spite work."
 "What follows?"

"Peggy and Everard had a regular knock-down fight on the beach yesterday noon after you and I quit the gang and set off for New London."
 My tongue felt furry, but I tried to sound casual. "Poor Pete Everard!" He seems to have quarreled with just about everyone he knew during the past few days.

"Don't put on an act, Hilda. You owe your sister. So does Crick."
 "To prove it he comes and tattles."
 "What Ada and Harve also heard. What they told Drummond when he took 'em to lunch this noon."
 "Oh," I said weakly. "Go on please."
 This was Crick Richards as quoted by Dennis. I could almost hear Crick talking, see him sitting with shoulders hunched, a way black lock straggling down over his forehead and his light-gray eyes peering through his ridiculous long lashes, as he snapped it out: "Peggy Glenn's a wilful brat and Pete slapped her down yesterday when she began talking about her part in the drummer he was supposed to be writing. Pete said he couldn't afford to have an inexperienced unknown in his play. Peggy got excited and said he'd promised and he wouldn't let anybody lie to her. Pam laughed and told her not to be foolish. Ada got into it then and said of course Pete would have to write her out of his show because Pam wouldn't let anyone as young and pretty as Peggy steal eyes, if not scenes, away from her. Then Peggy frothed at the mouth. She went for Pete. She stormed: 'Then you gyped me. We all heard.'"

 "Pete—gyped? Peggy?" I repeated.

"That's what Crick reports her as saying."
 "But that sounds as if Pete had borrowed money from Peggy."
 "Crick thought so. He said Peggy acted as if Pete had done something even worse than breaking a promise.... He tells me Ada spilled the whole business to Drummond at lunch this noon. So Crick passed it on to me and I'm bringing it to you."

"Maybe that's why Jack was so eager to see Peggy. Maybe he wanted to warn her."
 "Don't be naive, Hilda. Drummond likes pretty little Peggy. But he's in love with Nancy Everard. So if he's hard up for a sacrificial victim in the case of the people of this sovereign state versus the murderer of Pete Everard, Peggy might do."

I said quietly: "That's a crazy script."
 Dennis puffed at his pipe reflectively. "I told Crick Richards it was wacky. I'm telling you different."
 "What are you telling me?"

"That murder is new to you. We're all amateurs in murder. It isn't supposed to happen to the kind of people we know."
 "Nonsense," I remarked.
 "You're paralyzed with the fear that the killer is someone you love." I tried to evade him. "Jack Drummond isn't going to let Nancy Everard come to trial for murder if he can figure a way to prevent it. He may be ruthless about finding another victim."

"So what am I to do?"
 "See that justice is done."
 In that moment I hated Dennis Riorden. He was acting as if I had practically become Pete, as if I had a choice between condemning Greg or giving Jack the power to implicate Peggy if he felt that was the simplest way to extricate Nancy.

"You spied on me yesterday," I accused. "Now you're taking advantage of what you heard."
 He laughed easily. "Go ahead, bawl me out. Or cry on my shoulder. I'd like that much better. But take your choice."
 "My choice is to go home," I said coldly.

"Aren't you being unreasonable?"
 "Only disgusted. You're trying to force me to smash a friend. There's no need of my telling what I know. Nobody's asked me. And it's absurd even to hint that Peggy's in danger. We saw her with Jack yesterday around half-past five. And they came to the party together, she and Jack. She can't need protecting—unless Jack does." I added slowly and unwillingly.

Dennis' eyes narrowed. "That's another angle. But anyway you look at it, everybody who knows a salient fact had better come through—help the police see the pattern."
 "You're very subtle," I said.
 "I'll stop being.... You're terribly in love with Greg, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am. I always have been."
 "It's never done you any good, Hilda."
 "Maybe it never will. But I'd do a lot to save him."
 "No matter who suffered in his place?"

"But he didn't do it. He didn't," I protested.
 Dennis emptied his pipe out of the open window, started the car, and drove out to the high road.

"You're a great girl, Hilda. You'll be a woe if you ever grow up. Well, I'll be taking you home now."
 "But you haven't promised," I said.
 "I can't. I've never lied in all my long career. That's quite a record. I'm not sure I can spoil it. Not even for you, Hilda."

"All right. Have it your own way. I won't argue. But would you mind dropping me at the Everard gate on the way home, and putting the car in the garage?"
 "I'll wait for you. You can't go home alone at this hour of the night."
 "I don't want you to wait."
 "But I'm going to."
 "I'm not afraid of the dark." I said coldly. "And I've had about all of your company I can stand for one evening."

Quiz Jap Women In Prisoner Escape

TRINIDAD, Colo., Oct. 28—The Federal Bureau of Investigation today held for questioning five Japanese women—after pictures published in a newspaper showed Japanese women in the embrace of German prisoners of war.

Six Germans escaped last week from an internment camp nearby. The women questioned were taken into custody by an FBI agent at a farm where Japanese-Americans from the Amache relocation center were employed.

Gordon Nicholson, agent in charge of the district FBI office in Denver, said "the matter is under investigation. That is all we can say at this time."

The German prisoners were recaptured in northern New Mexico, and police searching them found the three amorous snapshots, which later were published in the Denver Post.

Fish oils are used to make glycerine.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Just dropped by to tell you, Frank, I had a fine letter from your son, Joe, this morning. Mighty nice of him to take the time to write me... I know how busy they keep the boys. That's a fine camp he's been transferred to up in New England."

"Yes, Catherine and I had a letter this morning, too. Said he was writing you... he's very fond of you, Judge. Catherine is certainly proud of Joe and proud of the great Army he's a part of."

"She has good reason to be, Frank."

Joe is one fine fellow and the Army he's in is the best disciplined, best behaved in our history. Just last night I was reading an article that quoted a report signed by five chaplains in the very camp where Joe is now training. I remember their exact words which were "there is no liquor problem at this Post." And I understand that's true in camp after camp all over the country. And if Catherine would like to see that report, I'll drop it off at the house tomorrow."

Mission In Night Club

CHICAGO — They're resinging "Hallelujah," instead of "Hi-de-ho," at the Hi-Hat club now preaching sermons from the dice booth. Chicago's once famous night club, dark for months, has been sold to the New Tribes Mission, an organization devoted to training of missionaries for remote parts of the world, and today the building where Helen Morgan, Joe E. Lewis and Willie Shore once performed is being used for religious instruction and meetings.

Cadet Quizzed In Murder

Wayne Lonergan, 26-year-old RCAF cadet, is shown, right, as he arrived in New York by plane from Buffalo to which city he had flown from Toronto, where he was arrested for questioning in connection with the bludgeoned murder of his wife, Patricia Burton Lonergan, heiress to a $4,000,000 fortune. Lonergan, waiving extradition, and protesting innocence, was to be questioned again in connection with the case. A detective is at left.

Covers Fit Guns, Bibles

GUADALCANAL—Marines here are sporting elaborate cigarette holders which they have made from bamboo. They cut the hollow stems to the desired length, whittle a mouth-piece out and presto—an attractive gun holder. Some of the Leathernecks have made "filter type holders" by pushing a cigarette into the tube to absorb the nicotine.

Household Hints

Fabric is playing a large part in furnishing changes around the house these days. That extra room which is being converted into a comfortable bed-sitting room for a war worker or for the wife of a man in the armed forces, can be made really beautiful by a judicious use of paint and fabrics. Fortunately, the shops have an ample supply of fabrics on hand, although, of course, stocks are limited as to patterns and colors.

One clever woman turned an unused room into a lovely bedroom on almost nothing. In clearing out the attic and cellar she came across an old four-poster bed, a washstand and a chest of drawers. When the old four poster was cut down, it was perfect. The chest was retained to match the dark stained bed and the washstand became a dressing table. She shopped and bought several yards of a gay cotton print, tiny flower nosegays on a white ground. A spreading skirt of the print made in two deep ruffles covered the dressing table.

Percule Used for Decorating

For a stool, a low kitchen chair was padded and covered with a combination of the print and green percale. The green percale with two big floor-reaching ruffles of the print, made a beautiful bedspread. The three windows were curtained with sweeping ruffled curtains in the print, and another find, a discarded bamboo porch shade, was painted white to finish off the window. Pale green walls and a comfy looked rug completed a bedroom of charm and distinction done by a woman who had never given such matters a thought until now.

Making Bedspreads

The rules for making a bedspread are comparatively simple. If you have a poster bed or a bed with a head and foot board it is easy because you allow openings for the posters and make a tuck-in foot and there you are. Most double beds are 54 inches wide and single beds 39 inches wide. For a double bed measure the length (about 6 feet) twice. Use one length for the center of the spread and add on what you need so that on the double bed you would have one wide center piece and two side pieces nine inches wide. Seam them or bind them with bias and you have the top. For ruffles measure one and a half times the distance around the two sides and the bottom, and for full pleats the measurement is the same. For the pillow covering extend (in reverse so it turns back with the right side out) the top pieces measurement by one and a half yards. For a more tailored spread make the top as directed and add a nine-inch drop all around and a short ruffle or pleats.

ROBERTSON ALSO SELECTS BUCKEYES TO BEAT INDIANA

Other Winners: Northwestern Over Minnesota; Michigan Over Illinois

By ORLO ROBERTSON
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—Plunging into this week's football selections without any attempt to establish an alibi.

Navy-Notre Dame—The nation's unbeaten No. 1 and No. 3 teams clash, Notre Dame.

Army-Pennsylvania—Another with top billing, Army.

Duke-Georgia Tech—The only thing certain about this southern classic is that each team will put 11 men on the field. On a hunch, we pick Tech.

California-Southern California—The Trojans still look like the top college team of their section.

Minnesota-Northwestern—Can't see how the Gophers are going to stop Otto Graham.

Michigan-Illinois—One-sided triumph for Michigan.

Texas Christian-Louisiana State-L.S.U.

Zivic Fights 176th

CHICAGO, Oct. 29.—Private Zivic of Pittsburgh will answer the bell for the 176th time in his 13-year boxing career tonight when he meets 21-year-old Bobby Richardson of Cleveland in a 10-round bout which features the opening show of the indoor boxing season in Chicago stadium.

RECOGNIZE ANGOTT AS TITLE HOLDER

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The chances are Sammy Angott sits over his breakfast farina and flapjacks these mornings and remarks to Sammy Angott something about "This is where I came in."

For, it appears that for the second time in three years the ruling nabobs of nose-mashing—the National Boxing commission and the New York State Athletic commission—have elected Sweepin' Sammy to sweep up the lightweight title mess and make one championship grow where two are now tangled up.

At that, the wrangling nabobs are lucky to have a guy like Sammy around to haul them out of these stews they cook up and fall into every now and then.

Sammy pulled them out once, in 1940, and it seems he started work again right before last when he whipped Slugger White in Los Angeles to take the NBA half of the crown. The Slugger, sitting out there on an impressive winning string and howling for recognition, had been an increasingly tough number for the beak-busting bosses to explain away.

To Fight Bobby Ruffin

Now Sammy the seep is coming east to take on Bobby Ruffin Nov. 29. Bobby, a pretty good free-for-all "bowler" himself, has the local fathers on somewhat of a pogostick at the moment because he recently upset Beau the Jumping Jack. This hardly makes the Bouncing Beau a glamour boy for his Nov. 19 re-turt tussle with Bobcat Bob Montgomery for the New York half of the title.

Las November, Sammy announced his "permanent" retirement because of ailing hands. Two months later he announced a comeback. The merry-go-round was rolling again. The New York commission sanctioned a scramble between the Jumping Jack and Tippy Larkin for the title. The Jumping Jack won, but later lost the bauble to Bobcat Bob.

The NBA claimed the Manhattan moguls were guilty of a Grade-A "run around" in the matter and withheld recognition from all hands until Wednesday night's California party. Now Sammy's the NBA ti-tleholder once more and hopes to turn the thing out again, meeting Montgomery eventually. And for second time, it looks as if he's "strictly on his own."

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The big league hockey season gets under way tomorrow night.... surprisingly, there are several experienced players still around—including husky guys like Pat Egan, discharged from the Canadian army, and Babe Pratt, who was rejected.... Still, they're calling kids who played part of last season "veterans" now and there isn't a goalie in the league who has played a full season in the major circuit.... In fact, far as we can recall, only Detroit's Jimmy Franks and 35-year-old Benny Grant, dragged out of retirement and propped up in the Toronto net, are the only ones who have played even a few games.... It'll probably be a lively season, but it's a good thing for the big-timers that the Curtis Bay Coast outfit is playing in the "amateur" league.

RECOGNIZE ANGOTT AS TITLE HOLDER

By SID FEDER
NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—The chances are Sammy Angott sits over his breakfast farina and flapjacks these mornings and remarks to Sammy Angott something about "This is where I came in."

For, it appears that for the second time in three years the ruling nabobs of nose-mashing—the National Boxing Commission and the New York State Athletic Commission—have elected Sweepin' Sammy to sweep up the lightweight title mess and make one championship grow where two are now tangled up.

At that, the wrangling nabobs are lucky to have a guy like Sammy around to haul them out of these stews they cook up and fall into every now and then.

Sammy pulled them out once, in 1940, and it seems he started work again right before last when he whipped Slugger White in Los Angeles to take the NBA half of the crown. The Slugger, sitting out there on an impressive winning string and howling for recognition, had been an increasingly tough number for the back-busting bosses to explain away.

The Fight Bobby Ruffin

Now Sammy the seep is coming east to take on Bobby Ruffin Nov. 29. Bobby, a pretty good free-for-all "bowler" himself, has the local fathers on somewhat of a pogostick at the moment because he recently upset Beau the Jumping Jack. This hardly makes the Bouncing Beau a glamour boy for his Nov. 19 return tussle with Robert Bob Montgomery for the New York half of the title.

Las November, Sammy announced his "permanent" retirement because of ailing hands. Two months later he announced a comeback. The merry-go-round was rolling again. The New York commission sanctioned a scramble between the Jumping Jack and Tippy Larkin for the title. The Jumping Jack won, but later lost the bauble to Bobcat Bob.

The NBA claimed the Manhattan moguls were guilty of a Grade-A "run around" in the matter and withheld recognition from all hands until Wednesday night's California party. Now Sammy's the NBA titleholder once more and hopes to iron the thing out again, meeting Montgomery eventually. And for second time, it looks as if he's "strictly on his own."

American foundries report that 5 percent of their employees now are women.

Although Macomb, Ill., High school won its game at Havana last week, fans still are demanding a recount on an 85-yard touchdown run by Fullback Don Daniels. Looking around after the play, officials could find only 10 Macomb players on the field so they nullified the score. The eleventh man was there, all right, but so many sideline fans crowded onto the edge of the field to watch the run that the missing player was lost in the throng.

The Great Lakes naval station and Chicago's Navy pier have entered teams in the Loyola cross country run tomorrow. Since when have sailors needed to run? Sports boost: Capt. Elmer Salter reports that the boys at the Bainbridge, Ga., Army air field cheer the newsreel shots of the big-time football games almost as loudly as they do the glamour girls who appear on the post theater screen.

The Orange bowl already is two-thirds sold out for the New Year's day grid game although the committee hasn't any idea what teams will play. Which helps explain why they're planning to increase the bowl's capacity to 70,000 after the war.

Dalmatia has been variously under the power of Greeks, Romans, Goths, Hungarians, Turks, Venetians, Austrians and French.

Nominated By Louis

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 29.—Sergt. Joe Louis, who hasn't made up his mind whether to retire as heavyweight boxing champion at the end of the war, has nominated his own leading contender for the title.

It's Star Harvey, a New York Negro, now in the Army.

"He's a much better fighter than he was before he entered the service," said Lewis, who is giving boxing exhibitions over the nation. "He's the best I've seen to date."

Ohio State Gridders Hope To Win Indiana Encounter

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Oct. 29.—Ohio State and Indiana write another page in an old football rivalry here tomorrow, the Buckeyes ben on so-far losing season and the Hoosiers seeking revenge for four straight lacerations by Ohio. A crowd of 25,000 is expected.

Both are handicapped by injuries. Ohio's first-string center, Gordon Appleby, has worn a uniform only once since a shoulder and wrist were battered in last week's loss to Northwestern and Dean Sensenbaur, standout left halfback, still is nursing bruises.

An injured knee has benched Ed Scheinbein, regular Indiana back, for the season and a broken collarbone has eliminated reserve back and guard Paul Davis.

"This one is important to us," Buckeye Mentor Paul E. Brown commented grimly as he sought to reverse the one-woon, four-woon trend of this season against heavier teams loaded with Navy and Marine trainees. He has stressed passing and pass defense in practices this week.

Alvin "Bo" McMillin, the Hoosier coach, was so dissatisfied with yesterday's workout at Bloomington that he called for a practice this morning before entraining for Columbus. Evidently expecting Ohio to use the air frequently, the Hoosiers have concentrated on pass defense.

Indiana has a great passing threat in Bob Hoernschemeyer, who McMillin has called the best thrower he ever had.

The Hoosiers haven't had a really tough game since Northwestern a month ago and have beaten Wabash, Nebraska and Wisconsin and tied Iowa while the Buckeyes have tackled the "big boys" week after week.

Ohio's lineup probably will be Jack Dugger and Cecil Souders at ends, Bill Willis and Ray Stack-

Game time is 2 p. m. (CWT).

In the 16th century, smug meant trim or neat.

War-Time Tension Is Reflected In Ohio Death Causes

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Oct. 28.—War-time tension has increased the number of Ohio deaths from cerebral hemorrhage and heart ailments, State Health Director R. H. Markwith said today.
The Health department reported that 15,954 Ohioans died of heart disease during Jan. 1 and Sept. 1, an increase of 1,208 over similar deaths during the 1942 period, while fatalities from cerebral hemorrhage were up 1,615, with 5,469 deaths in 1943 against 3,854 a year ago.
"The nervous tension of wartime activities undoubtedly was a contributing cause in deaths from cerebral hemorrhage and heart disease," Dr. Markwith said. "Many people past middle age are carrying an increased load in wartime."
Ohio deaths from all causes to Sept. 1 totaled 53,232 against 50,922 a year ago.
Department records also showed that Ohio's birth rate is the highest ever. The birth of 12,613 babies during August boosted the eight-month total to 92,485, compared to 86,693 in the corresponding period of 1942, the previous high year.
